CAUSE NOT CLEAR

COLORED WOMAN'S SUDDEN DEATH CALLS FOR INVESTIGATION.

Report of Accidental Poisoning Denied by Druggists Interested—Coroner's Inquest.

Miami McChesney, age 49, colored, wife of James McChesney, a teamster residing near Eighth and Washington streets, died at 9:30 o'clock this morning from the effects of heart trouble or poisoning. The family claim a purchase was made at a local drug store this morning and that quinine was asked for; but instead of getting quinine the boy who waited on the girl gave her morphine and this is what the mother accidentally swallowed. The druggists, on the other hand, are equally as positive that the girl was not given morphine but received what she called for, quinine.

The facts in the case are as follows: The mother was feeling ill this morning and needed quinine. She sent her daughter, Ethel, age 15, to the Iverson & Wallace pharmacy, at Seventh and Washington, to buy five cents worth. The girl claims she entered the store and was waited on by a small, light haired youth, George Thompson, who is employed in the store to carry out packages, and who is also studying pharmacy. She carried the drug home and gave it to her mother, who dissolved the powder in her coffee and drank it. This was about 7:30 this morning.

Within a few moments after the coffee had been drunk the woman felt a peculiar numbness and later became limp and began sinking. Her daughter summoned Mrs. C. A. Isbell and W. H. Nelson, colored, but they were unable to do her any good. At 9:30 she expired.

The story of the druggists is given out in a brief statement made the newspapers by their attorneys, Messrs. C. C. Grassham and Lal Threlkeld. It reads:

"They sold no poison of any kind to the woman or anyone for her."

"The girl called for quinine and they sold her quinine, and if she died from the effects of any other medicine, it was not gotten at their place."

"The young man who wrapped the quinine and labelled it did it under their supervision, as we understand."

It is understood that the deceased was subject to heart trouble, and that the Wallace & Iverson pharmacy has on file several dozen prescriptions from various physicians for the woman for heart trouble. The presumption that she died from an attack has been advanced.

Coroner Frank Eaker was notified of the matter and set the inquest at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at the county court house.

This afternoon Coroner Frank Eaker was feeling ill and Justice Chas. Emery was secured to hold the inquest. Miss Mattie Brown was selected to take down the evidence and the jury was taken to the residence, where the body was viewed.

Dr. Horace T. Rivers had been directed to remove the stomach by Coroner Frank Eaker and performed the autopsy this afternoon. The stomach will probably be sent to Louisville for an analysis.

Got In for Extra Costs.

The Register Newspaper company today paid the attorney for Elden Stone, J. M. Worten, $37.50 as a penalty for failing to file its appeal in the case of Stone vs. The Register Newspaper company, for alleged libel. Stone sued the newspaper for damages in the Livingston county court and was awarded damages of $350, and the newspaper proposed to appeal the case but failed to file its record in time, and, under the law, it had to pay the plaintiff a penalty of 10 per cent for failing to do so. This leaves the case ready for an appeal, which will probably be taken.

Caught in Elevator.

Allan McCurston, employed at the Paducah Laundry Co., was seriously injured at the Palmer house Saturday afternoon late. He was taking laundry up on the freight elevator in the rear of the hotel and got caught between the floor of the lift and the floor above. His left leg was badly bruised and he will be disabled for several weeks, probably. He resides at 539 South Third street.

Small Blaze Last Night.

The No. 22 and 3 fire companies answered an alarm last night about 6:40 o'clock for 11th and Jones streets.
